Summary

I have always been passionate about technology and community building. How do we break up complex problems into understandable and sizeable bits, solve daily challenges with technology, build better communities and inspire people to stand out wherever they find themselves?

My passion has led me to serve as a Software Developer , Community Builder and Tech Speaker who sees solutions in problems. I believe there is always a solution to every problem.

I am energetic, creative and always willing to learn, unlearn and relearn.
